

Crash claims pilot, military photographer

EXERCISE The pilot and military photographer aboard a CT-114 Tutor are dead after their plane crashed just outside of Moose Jaw, Sask., yesterday afternoon.

The plane crashed two kilometres northwest of the 15 Wing Base, where the plane was stationed and reportedly conducting a training exercise.

The CT-114 is the same plane used by the Snowbirds aerobatic team, though the deceased are not members of the team. The Snowbirds are currently showing in California.

Both of the deceased were Canadians, though the names were not released as of press time, as the next of kin was still to be notified. The crash is under investigation.

More cops to patrol Chinatown

Decision comes after 2,000 petition for more officers

KRISTA SYLVESTER
krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

A plan to step up police patrol in Chinatown in light of recent violence is getting mixed reviews.

Last month, an innocent bystander was left blind after a bullet meant for someone else struck him. The incident prompted nearly 2,000 signatures from Chinatown residents for more patrols in the area.

Nigel Wikel thinks it's an "overreaction" to boost the number of cops in the area.

"I just think there are already enough police officers in the area. The problem is, they are harassing people like skateboarders instead of addressing the violence," he said.

Police Supt. Trevor Daroux says the presence of extra officers in the area isn't directly related to the innocent bystander shot.

"It has been in the works for a while now. Chinatown has just been identified as a priority right now, but this is something we have been working towards for a while," he added.

Daroux said by next June there will actually be 77 police officers on the downtown beat — currently, there are only 17.

Ward 8 Ald. John Mar, who oversees the downtown Beltline area, said the extra policing is less of a knee-jerk reaction and more of an identified need.

"We have an obligation to patrol all areas of the city. Sometimes some areas need more than others," he said.

Oilsands 'horrified' film star

TOUR Scream star Neve Campbell says she was appalled after touring Alberta's oilsands, which included a visit to the Mikisew First Nation and the Athabasca First Nation.

"I'm horrified by the pace and scale of development in the tar-sands, and weak response by our federal and provincial governments," she said in a release yesterday.

The tour held on Wednesday and Tuesday, organized by ForestEthics, was done by helicopter and car.

The organization also vowed to step up efforts to raise attention about "the environmental and social costs" of oilsands developments, it said in a release.

Card swipe for staff at 230 public schools

KRISTA SYLVESTER

High-tech security systems could be coming to a public school near you.

The public school board approved the $1.8 million technology — and after testing the project at 80 pilot schools, the centralized system will now be used by all 230 public schools.

“Right now our short term intentions are for the system to be used by teachers and support staff and if it goes well we would look at expanding it to our students,” CBE spokesperson Barb Kuester said, adding it’s a security step.

The ID card system would require teachers and staff to swipe into the schools and certain areas, and would also allow the school to be put on lockdown, if needed.

But not everyone is in support of the idea for students to be obligated to carry the ID cards.

Heather Fidyk, 42-year-old mother of three, says while it seems like a good idea for high school students, she thinks it’s a little much for elementary.

“I think perhaps high school students could benefit from this, but I think elementary kids al-

Western Canada High school students weighed in on the idea and while 17-year-old Kyle Hanna thinks it’s a good idea to have more security, another thinks it’s too much.

“I think it’s a bit of an overreaction. I have never really felt unsafe here,” Ashleigh Honeyman said.

News in brief

STUDY The number of youth conducting criminal activities in Alberta is on a major downward slide, according to new University of Calgary research. A study released yesterday, the second phase of a three-year project, found a 27 per cent decline in the number of Albertans between 12 and 17 years old being charged with criminal offences between 2001 and 2006. The next installment of the project will look into the best practices across the country to deal with chronic young offenders.

Calgary motorists frustrated by three years of construction slowdowns along Glenmore Trail SW were treated to a freer-flowing thoroughfare yesterday as the road work finally came to an end.

Glenmore construction is now history

krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

Motorists got an early Christmas present yesterday when they set to the roads and found Glenmore Trail back to normal — no construction and an 80 km/h speed limit.

Construction on the busy roadway initially began in 2005, while work on the first phase was finished in 2007; the rest was completed this week, making it the largest infrastructure project in the city's history.

“These projects were a massive undertaking. Calgarians have shown incredible patience and support during construction, and are finally able to reap the benefits,” Mayor Dave Bronconnier said.

Glenmore Trail is an east-west causeway that has 140,000 commuters daily, including Ken Smith who was happy to see the six-lane road back to normal.

“I don’t drive it everyday but when I do it’s a hellhole.

So far it looks a lot better though,” he said.

But Brian Lahody drives the Glenmore twice daily and says while he is happy it’s finished, he still thinks it could be better.

“I think it sucks you can’t get to Glenmore east from 5th street where I live,” he said. “But it’s good it’s finally done.”

Trailer parks not ideal housing: Prof

SOCIAL HOUSING In the battle for more affordable housing, trailer parks are not the answer, says a University of Calgary professor.

Ald. Ric McIver said the city could save by looking to cost-effective trailers, getting one and a half units compared to a current typical $300,000 affordable housing option.

“It’s the worst case scenario for making money, but it’s the best case scenario for addressing the sizable affordable housing problems we have here,” said McIver.

University of Calgary environmental design specialist Marc Boutin said it might be cost-friendly, but he doesn’t envision it boosting the human spirit of those it intends to help.

“Essentially, you’re marrying two stereotypes here in that trailer parks are cheap and affordable and social housing has to be cheap,” he said. “It’s not the best solution by a long shot and a key concern with social housing must be that there are no stigmas attached.”

Disaster looms for health system: MLA

NEIL MACKINNON

what's actually going on, according to Calgary Mountain View Liberal MLA David Swann.

The numbers are skewed.
While Calgary's 112 family physicians per 100,000 people are higher than both the provincial and national averages, it's not an accurate reflection of "Family physicians are increasingly turning to other things — injecting veins, cosmetic procedures, helping out with specialized surgeries — just to make enough money to stay afloat," Swann said. "It's a highly stressful, poorly paid career and people are staying away from family medicine in droves, so I'd suggest that this 112 number is absolutely inaccurate."

Swann

The family physician rate barely made the grade on the Calgary Foundation's Vital Signs report released earlier this week, receiving a D-plus, while health and wellness overall received a C, indicating Calgarians expect much more of a health care system that Swann said is on a fast track for complete disaster.

"The ones that do stick with it are so close to falling off the edge that it is going to mean more mistakes are made, more complications and more legal action," Swann said. "People aren't getting the care they need or deserve."

Alberta Health and Wellness' Howard May said there isn't a city in the country facing more growth pressure than Calgary and finding enough people to fill family physician slots is a constant battle.

"Let's face it, when you've got people moving

Domestic abuse victims get help from province

NEIL MACKINNON
neil.mackinnon@metronews.ca

FUNDING It's really just the beginning.

Escaping family violence got easier for about 50 Calgary women and their children yesterday as the province teamed up with Calgary's Homeless Foundation to inject nearly $1 million into a pilot project aiming to get the victims of domestic abuse out of temporary shelters and into permanent homes.

"There's a great support network here, but we're just unable to keep up with the demand," said Calgary Homeless Foundation president and CEO Tim Richter, whose organization shelled out $250,000 for the project.

Calgary has the highest rate of domestic violence in the country, according to the Calgary Foundation's Vital Signs report released Monday, there were 12,276 domestic calls to police in 2007, a 500 call increase from the year prior.

"It is critical that women and children who are victims of domestic violence have housing available where they can pause, think about next steps, be safe and move to a better life," said Yvonne Fritz, minister of housing and urban affairs.

Afghan mission $18.1B: Report

The Conservative government deliberately misled Canadians about the mounting cost of Canada's Afghan mission, federal New Democrats said after a new report pegged the price tag at up to $18.1 billion before it ends in 2011.

"They have tried to hide the real cost," NDP Leader Jack Layton said yesterday after the parliamentary budget officer released a report that tallied the cost of the war — and also said that successive Liberal and Conservative governments were not upfront with Canadians.

Yesterday's independent report, which pegged the cost of the conflict far above anything released by the government, thrust the issue into the political arena in the final days of the campaign.

Kevin Page, Parliament's independent budget officer, called his report the most "comprehensive" assessment of the price tag of Canada's diplomatic and military efforts in Afghanistan since 2002.

Harper defended the cost as the price of ensuring soldiers and diplomats are well-protected in their work. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Election 2008

Trinity Thibeault, 5, daughter of Sudbury NDP candidate Glenn Thibeault, keeps a close eye on NDP Leader Jack Layton yesterday as he speaks at Sudbury's Science North.

Layton feels momentum

NDP Stalled in the polls with the surging Liberals siphoning off support, NDP Leader Jack Layton refuses to accept his third-place party isn't poised to win new seats across the country.

"Everywhere I go I see NDP momentum," Layton, who has been criss-crossing the country, meeting mainly with party supporters, said yesterday.

"Everywhere we've gone the crowds are keen and enthusiastic and they are charging out to talk to other voters. I've got to tell you, as far as I can tell, as the skipper of this particular ship, there is a lot of wind in our sails."

The New Democrats went into the election campaign with high hopes of adding many seats to the 30 they already have in the House of Commons, but the polls shows potential votes are drifting to the Liberals.

Even now, with just four days left, Layton refuses to give up on his opening line that he is running to be prime minister, and he says he will continue to do it "right through to election day when Canadians make their decision."

Green candidates back Liberals

QUEBEC Despite a declaration by Green party Leader Elizabeth May earlier in the campaign that she had no deal to throw support behind the Liberals on the final stretch, two Quebec Green candidates yesterday asked their supporters to back their Liberal competitors.

Elizabeth May

The two candidates, Danielle Moreau in the riding of Longueuil-Pierre-Boucher, and Claude Gaumond of Montmagny-l'Islet-Kamouraska-Rivière-du-Loup, apparently didn't know what the other was planning, with Moreau saying she only learned of Gaumond's decision from the Toronto Star.

The support for the Liberals is sure to fuel speculation there has been a deal rumbling between the parties since the outset of the campaign.

Both May and Liberal Leader Stéphane Dion have said there is no deal, other than the leaders' courtesy arrangement not to run competing candidates in each others riding. Prime Minister Stephen Harper predicted early on that May would endorse the Liberals in the campaign's last days.

Dion appeals to NDP, Green voters

SWITCH With the election only a few days away, Liberal Leader Stéphane Dion is stepping up his appeal to NDP and Green party supporters to switch to the Liberals to block the Conservatives.

"Canadians know that Jack Layton will not be elected prime minister on Oct. 14," he said of the NDP leader yesterday.

"A vote for Jack Layton will save only one job, and that is Stephen Harper's." Speaking at the Halifax Chamber of Commerce, he said: "My goal — in fact my determination — is to replace Stephen Harper."

Voters worried about their savings, pensions and jobs should "think twice" before voting for the NDP, Dion added.

U.S. willing to make peace with Taliban

The United States would be prepared to reconcile with the Taliban if the Afghan government pursued talks to end the war, U.S. Defense Secretary Robert Gates said yesterday.

But he said Washington would not consider any negotiations with al Qaeda.

Gates said reconciliation would be the political end to the conflict in Afghanistan, but it must happen on the Afghan government's terms and the Taliban must commit to subject itself to the sovereignty of the government.

"There has to be ultimately, and I'll underscore ultimately, reconciliation

"There has to be ultimately ... reconciliation as part of a political outcome."

Robert Gates

as part of a political outcome to this," Gates said after NATO meetings about the Afghanistan war.

"That's ultimately the exit strategy for all of us."

But Gates said reconciliation efforts could not include anyone belonging to al Qaeda, the group that had claimed responsibility for the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks and the main target of U.S. counter-terrorism efforts around the world.

"We have to be sure that we're not talking about any al Qaeda," he said.

Britain's military commander in Afghanistan has said the war cannot be won militarily, and that talks with the Taliban will be crucial. NATO commanders and diplomats have also said for some time that negotiations with the militants will be needed.

Afghan President Hamid Karzai said he had asked Saudi Arabia to mediate in talks with the insurgents, and called on Taliban leader Mullah Omar to make peace. But his plea was rejected by a senior Taliban officer. REUTERS

Sierra Leone Paradise lost

Harriet Turay, 35, stands in front of what remains of her Harris Beach Bar and Restaurant in Freetown on Wednesday. Demolition teams wielding axes and machetes this week smashed up popular beach bars as part of an improvement scheme to develop tourism in Sierra Leone's capital. The Ministry of Tourism and Culture says the beach bars, where aid workers and families relax and play in the sand, contribute to environmental degradation and are an eyesore. Bar owners say they have not been consulted or offered compensation.

China pushes U.S. for 'terror suspects'

GUANTANAMO China yesterday pressed the United States to hand over 17 Chinese Muslims held at Guantanamo, describing the men as terror suspects who must face the "sanction of the law."

The 17 have been held at the military prison on a U.S.-controlled part of Cuba since being captured during the U.S.-led campaign in Afghanistan in 2001. They are now caught in a tug-of-war between the Bush administration, U.S. courts and Beijing.

Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Qin Gang said the men were members of a UN-listed group accused of terrorism. "Through various channels we have presented our solemn stance and demands to the U.S. side," Qin said.

"We hope the U.S. will take this seriously and repatriate to China as soon as possible these 17 terror suspects."

Washington has said it cannot return the men to China because they would face persecution there. Qin rejected the possibility the 17 men could be tortured if they return.

A U.S. federal appeals court on Wednesday temporarily blocked their release, granting the Bush administration's request to stay a judge's order that they be released into the United States at the end of the week. REUTERS

N. Korea deploys missiles, bars UN nuclear monitors

WEAPONS North Korea deployed more than 10 missiles, apparently for a test launch, a South Korean newspaper said yesterday, and halted UN monitoring of its nuclear complex.

The potentially destabilizing moves followed a U.S. offer to remove North Korea from its terrorism blacklist this month, in an effort to keep a nuclear disarmament pact from falling apart.

It would be an unprecedented test if all of the missiles were fired. Intelligence sources said they thought the North may launch five to seven, and that North Korea has forbidden ships to sail in part of the Yellow Sea until Oct. 15 in preparation.

The United States urged North Korea not to do anything, including launching missiles, that would make matters worse. REUTERS

Woman might join GM ranks

YorkReport

Marty York

marty.york@metronews.ca

A 39-year-old woman ranks as the leading candidate to become the new general manager of the Seattle Mariners.

Kim Ng, assistant GM of the Los Angeles Dodgers, would make major league history if she is indeed hired. No woman has run an MLB club before, but the word on Ng around the big leagues is that she is irrefutably qualified. She served in the front office of the Chicago White Sox before being appointed assistant GM of the New York Yankees in 1997. She also worked at AL headquarters in New York.

She joined the Dodgers in 2001 and became the top lieutenant of GM Ned Colletti in 2005.

"I'd hate to lose her," Colletti told me, "but it would be unfair to even try to hold her back. She'll be an outstanding GM, I'm sure. The time has come for a woman to join the fraternity."

While the Dodgers confront the Philadelphia Phillies in the NL Championship Series this week, Ng will be meeting Seattle chiefs about their vacant position.

Among the other Mariners candidates, by the way, is Tony LaCava, assistant GM of the Blue Jays.

"But as far as his chances in Seattle, Tony isn't even in the same ballpark as Kim is," an MLB source told me. "The only way Kim doesn't get this job is if she comes across foolishly in her interviews, and there's no way that'll happen because she's extremely sharp."

• Ng, incidentally, wouldn't be the first female GM in major professional sports.

That is, if you count the CFL as a major professional sport.

In 1989, Jo-Anne Polak was hired as the GM of the CFL franchise that used to be in Ottawa.

Speaking of the CFL, visit metronews.ca/cflreport for my latest picks and nuggets on the league.

• And speaking of baseball GMs, the Tampa Bay Rays' Andrew Friedman is a shoo-in as MLB's top executive this season.

The Rays opened their schedule with the second-lowest payroll ($43.8 million US) in the big leagues, and here they are, facing the Boston Red Sox in the ALCS.

Friedman, 31, is quite the story. He's a former investment analyst who thinks economically first but simultaneously leans on his experienced aides, including former Houston Astros GM Gerry Hunsicker, for their baseball acumen.

Friedman signed Carlos Pena and Eric Hinske, who combined for 51 home runs this season, to puny minor-league contracts before giving them respectable raises.

"We're living proof," Friedman said, "that there's legitimate hope for every sad sack team in sports."

Marty York has been a groundbreaking sports columnist and broadcaster in Canada for decades.

Body of Lies entertains, yet ...

Body of Lies

Director: Ridley Scott
Stars: Leonardo DiCaprio, Russell Crowe
Classification: 18A
Rating: ●●●●

STEVE GOW
 For Metro Canada

Just like the recent thriller Eagle Eye, Body of Lies is banking on the notion that, through technology, an unseen power can control our every move.

In the case of director Ridley Scott's latest film, that omnipotent surveillance is set in the Middle East, where CIA field agent Roger Ferris (Leonardo DiCaprio) is not only tracking down an Osama bin Laden-like terrorist leader, but he's doing so under the guidance of stay-at-home chief Ed Hoffman (Russell Crowe).

Observing Ferris's moves from the eyes of unmanned spy drones, Hoffman calls the shots over a

Russell Crowe, left, and Leonardo DiCaprio star in Body of Lies, a new film by director Ridley Scott.

Bluetooth in America while watching his kids play soccer.

For Ferris, this disconnect is the perfect example of the problems in the Middle East: If those directing the war on terror cannot relate to the situation on the ground, how can they solve the quandary there?

I suppose that's the political point of the film, but three-time Oscar nominee Scott (Gladiator) compromises too much for the sake of the action to really hammer that message home.

Instead, he creates a decent actioner, led by DiCaprio who continues to impress with solid performances in socially conscious projects. As for Crowe — who reportedly gained more than 20 kilograms to play the pudgy puppetmaster — well, there's only so much you can emote when you're pretending to be on the phone.

Although entertaining, Body of Lies — like its cinematic brethren Eagle Eye — carries little legitimacy as an accurate lesson in real world politics.

Paul Gross's passion for Passchendaele

PHILIP CROUCHER
 Metro Canada

FEATURE Paul Gross remembers listening to the gruesome stories his grandfather would tell about the First World War. They were moving, and heart wrenching.

So, when Gross began work on Passchendaele, the filmmaker's grandfather was on his mind as the battles played out in the movie.

"To get that hit, that this is what it was like, was an extraordinary gift," Gross said.

"I don't know what kind of breed of men they were. I don't know how they did this. I wouldn't have lasted 20 seconds."

It was the war stories told by his grandfather that ignited Gross's interest in making Passchendaele, a movie set during the height of the First World War.

The film — it opens next Friday — explores the horrific battle, a fight which claimed about a million lives and eventually found Canada victorious thanks to determination, commitment and triumph.

"Really, the movie is a love story with war as the culminating event," said Gross, who is the film's lead actor, writer, director and producer.

"I think it's because gradually I became more interested in the intimacy of warfare. What it does to communities and neighbours and love and innocence."

The movie was filmed in Alberta and took about a year to make. It cost $20 million — high for a Canadian production.

"It did have a lot of money, but if this was a U.S. studio, they wouldn't contemplate it for anything less than $100 million US," said Gross, who is from Calgary.

"So, we were still making a very low budget film in comparison, and I can guarantee there wasn't a day that went by on that set where I didn't think I couldn't use another $80 million."

Gross is unsure how his movie will be received, but resigns himself to the fact it's out of his control.

"I just really hope those who do go to see it, and I hope every human being breathing in Canada goes to see it, really feels it was time well spent," he said.

City of Ember a smart treat for kids, parents

City of Ember

PHIL BROWN
 For Metro Canada

REVIEW It says a lot about the current state of our planet when two of the biggest family films of recent months have been set in post-apocalyptic worlds where humans have been forced to abandon the planet due to excessive pollution.

Al Gore must be proud. Granted, City of Ember isn't as poignant or touching as Pixar's Wall-E, but then few films are.

Based on the novel by Jeanne Duprau, City of Ember is set in a world where a small community of humans have been living underground for generations, awaiting the day when the planet will be hospitable enough to return to the surface.

Of course, due to corrupt leadership — currently embodied by a potbellied mayor played by Bill Murray — none of the citizens know the master plan. It's up to two children (brilliantly played by Saoirse Ronan and Harry Treadaway) to uncover the mystery and save the city.

Bill Murray, centre, stars in City of Ember, which is set in a world where humans live underground.

The plot is standard children's fantasy/adventure fare elevated by social and political commentary.

Caroline Thompson's script suffers from having to condense a full novel into 90 minutes, but it is still one of the smartest children's screenplays in recent years.

"It is still one of the smartest children's screenplays in recent years."

Sophomore director Gil Kenan (Monster House)

proves himself to be a major young talent with this movie, infusing it with a directorial style and confidence rarely seen in a filmmaker of such limited experience.

Unfortunately, the movie probably won't reach the audience it deserves because it is simply too somber for the family-matinee crowd.

While that tone is entirely appropriate for the subject matter, it won't pack theatres with birthday parties or sell happy meals.

That's unfortunate, because films this intelligent and well-crafted are rarely produced for kids. A little extra humour and exposition probably would have helped make this more palatable for the masses.

Marsden coming along as a comedic actor

STEVE GOW
For Metro Canada

Josh Zuckerman, star of the new raucous teen comedy Sex Drive, admits his favourite gags in the film are "anything to do with James Marsden."

In a wild movie that's filled with scenes including a rowdy Amish keg party and a showdown with police while wearing a donut costume, Zuckerman's endorsement shows how far Marsden has come as a comic actor since rising to fame as a serious superhero in the X-Men franchise.

Indeed, while Marsden has been lighting up such lighter fare as Hairspray recently, Sex Drive — in theatres next Friday — marks the first film where he steals the show outright.

"I was sure hoping I would be (funny)," admits Marsden during a recent interview in Los Angeles.

"It was kind of a leap of faith. Like you go, 'Either this is going to be a careerender or people are going to really like it and find it funny.'"

In the movie, Marsden plays Rex, the taunting and cocky brother to Zuckerman's Ian — a young virgin who sets out on a road trip in order to meet a sexy sure thing he met on the Internet.

A modern twist on the teen comedies of the '80s, it's perhaps no surprise that Marsden's character is one of the most obnoxious jerks on film since Bill Paxton offered Anthony Michael Hall a "greasy pork sandwich served in a dirty ashtray!" in John Hughes' Weird Science.

"In the teenage years, everybody feels like they're the anomaly, like they're the freak," says Marsden of the teen comedy genre's broad appeal.

"I certainly felt that way so all movies like this sort of got (me) through it. Vicariously through John Hughes, I was getting some action."

While Marsden has been receiving accolades for the fearlessness of playing a jerk, he insists that it's harder work acting in more sobering projects like his next film, a psychological thriller called The Box.

"If I were to do live comedy and stuff like that, that would be tough but this, you have a big old safety net," says Marsden. "You can mess up and not be funny and know it's going to get cut out of the movie. But I find it more difficult to expect somebody to really take you seriously."

REVIEW Sports movies have become a place where Americans try to talk about race with a regretful glance backwards and an optimistic one forward — if only we could say the same thing about election campaigns.

It's also a movie genre that has become as predictable as horror films. Like so many of its predecessors, Gary Fleder's The Express is based on a true story, sets up its protagonist, his allies and antagonists with ritual care, features a few game sequences heavy on careening, quick-cut camera work, and ends with the customary series of end titles to let us know what happened after the credits roll.

It's the story of Ernie Davis, the first African-American winner of the Heisman Trophy, back when everything blacks did — in music or films or sports — became part of the public face of the civil rights struggles of the late '50s and early '60s.

Davis's great skill was as a running back, Jim Brown's successor as Syracuse University's star, and a name that probably would have been as iconic as Brown had he not died of Leukemia just after signing with the Cleveland Browns.

Rob Brown plays Davis as a natural talent with a moral compass, increasingly motivated to use his talent to encourage the aspirations of young blacks, and Fleder doesn't get in the way of letting this become the film's engine.

Dennis Quaid plays the coach of the Syracuse Orangemen, a white man willing to overlook colour if it helps win games, but unwilling to push too hard against the dangerously unstable racial edifices inside and outside the game.

There's nothing in The Express that challenges sports film convention.

Coppola revisits The Godfather

JIM REYNO
Metro Canada

It's an offer film buffs can't refuse.

Director Francis Ford Coppola has overseen the digital restoration of his landmark films The Godfather and The Godfather, Part II.

We're talking (actually, the press release is) "extensive frame-by-frame examination and restoration utilizing state-of-the-art digital technology."

That sounds serious. That's why it took more than a year. It's not something you'd do for every flick. Who wants to go frame by frame through Tango and Cash for 365 days?

But The Godfather saga? Both films won Academy Awards for best picture. The Godfather won in 1972; the sequel two years later.

Filmmaker Stanley Kubrick went so far as to say The Godfather is "possibly the greatest movie ever made."

Maybe more importantly than any accolades, Coppola's interpretation

"It's a gangster movie, but it's doing a number of things that most gangster movies don't."

Jerry White

of novelist Mario Puzo's tale of the Corleone family created the blueprint for the many organized-crime movies that have followed.

Or at least it should be the blueprint.

"It's a gangster movie, but it's doing a number of things that most gangster movies don't," said Jerry White, director of film studies at the University of Alberta. "It's a lot more ambitious and sophisticated."

Loyalty, family and integration are among the themes explored by The Godfather, but those soft words seem out of place in this story. Like a horse head between the sheets.

"It does all the stuff that gangster films are supposed to do," said White. "It has the kind of violence — exciting violence and vividly realized violence — all that kind of good, pulpy genre stuff is in The Godfather, for sure.

Francis Ford Coppola spent a year restoring The Godfather.

"But it's a lot more sophisticated about the ethical quandaries inherent in that kind of violence. It's a lot more sophisticated about the political and the social meaning of that kind of violence."

As for the restoration, White says it will revitalize one of the things that make The Godfather a masterpiece.

"The movie really is one of the great works of American cinema, and a lot of it has to do with the colour," he said.

"It is this incredibly rich, vibrant, very visually lush piece of work. Some of that has to do with camera movement, but a lot of it has to do with colour."

"It's a really beautifully visualized piece of work."

Tell No One stylish but contrived thriller

Tell No One

Director: Guillaume Canet

Stars: Francois Cluzet, Kristin Scott Thomas

Classification: 18A

Rating: ⓈⓈ%

PHILIP BROWN
for Metro Canada

REVIEW Dating back to the 1950s, French filmmakers have always had a remarkable ability to take pulpy American crime novels and elevate them to the level of cinematic art.

There are many examples of this phenomenon, but sadly, Tell No One is not one of them.

This stylish thriller by part-time director and full-time actor Guillaume Canet is very well constructed and dripping with style, but the movie is little more than a brilliant set up in search of an ending.

The film is about a doctor named Alex who thought he witnessed his wife's death, but suddenly finds himself the primary suspect in her death when dead bodies are found at the murder site eight years later.

The same day, Alex sees a video on the Internet suggesting that his wife might still be alive.

The film then becomes a race against time with Alex attempting to prove his innocence before the police can nab him for her murder.

The actors are excellent across the board, with an amazing lead performance from Francois Cluzet, who runs the full gamut of emotions throughout the film.

Director Canet also stages some quite impressive set pieces as well, including a lengthy foot chase throughout Paris that is as exciting as anything coming out of Hollywood. All of which makes it even more disappointing when the movie turns to the contrived.

With a more carefully crafted finale, this could have been a classic French thriller. Without it, the experience is merely frustrating.

Quote of the week

"The first time that everyone saw me I was ... six and I was in I Am Sam and now I'm 14. So I think that's inevitable, but I am getting older. I am growing up and I can't do anything about that. I have to do what I feel is right for me and grow as an actress. I have to do that no matter what, if I want to continue doing this, and I do."

Beverly Hills Chihuahua

REVIEW These days, it seems Hollywood producers are all wondering the same thing: If my dog could speak, what would it say? Well, Beverly Hills Chihuahua is the latest talking animal flick to heed that query and — according to one cheeky chihuahua at least — the answer is, “Oh no she didn’t!” Featuring the voices of Drew Barrymore, Andy Garcia and other celebs, Chihuahua is a harmless “tail” (Ha!) about a snooty, rich lapdog that gets lost in Mexico and must journey back to Rodeo Drive. Along the way, she encounters a mélange of muttering mutts and an annoying animated rat-iguana duo that, in the end, teach us life lessons.

Blindness

REVIEW Based on the acclaimed book by Nobel laureate Jose Saramago, Blindness was deemed unfilmable. Well that was until multi-talented Canadian actor/writer Don McKellar — perhaps most famous as the playwright of The

Greg Kinnear plays Robert Kearns in the film Flash of Genius.

Drowsy Chaperone — got his hands on it. The story of a city besieged by a strange disease that causes everyone to suffer a “white blindness,” this film is part-allegory, part-dystopian drama. Simply put, as everyone except Julianne Moore loses their sight and are put in quarantine, society crumbles into chaos, violence and disarray not unlike we’ve seen in such fare as Lord of the Flies. At times, it makes for a harrowing suspense drama, and director Fernando Mereilles (The Constant Gardener) adds a notable visual flair that will either evoke an impressive sense of dread or simply nauseate you.

Steve Gow/Metro Canada

Flash of Genius

REVIEW Flash of Genius isn't an easy movie to sell. It doesn't feature a major star, and it's about the guy who created the intermittent windshield wiper — not exactly the sort of invention that leaves most mouths gaping in awe. Set in the heyday of the automobile, Greg Kinnear plays Robert Kearns, an eccentric college professor who — after literally getting corked in the eye — invents a new wiper. When the Ford Motor Company shows just enough interest to get his prototype and steal the idea, Kearns must take on the auto giant to regain his dignity even though it costs him his family and, by all indication, his sanity.

Steve Gow/Metro Canada

Ghost Town

REVIEW If you don't know who Ricky Gervais is, Ghost Town is staring straight at you. Why? Well, because this all-too-familiar romantic comedy is desperately aiming to expose the British comic sensation to a new audience. Gervais plays a selfish arse of a dentist named Pincus who, after a near-death experience, obtains the sole ability to communicate with New York City's ghosts — those who are walking around, waiting to earn their wings by completing unfinished business with their loved ones. Obviously, there's nothing entirely new about this film.

How To Lose Friends & Alienate People

REVIEW
How To Lose Friends & Alienate People comes to screens with an impeccable comedic pedigree. The script is based on a bile-filled expose of the media by self-proclaimed narcissistic twat Tony Young, the cast features such names as Simon Pegg and Jeff Bridges, and the project was directed by Curb Your Enthusiasm veteran Robert Weide. All the pieces are in place for a masterpiece of the comic faux pas ... but, sadly, the film fails to deliver on its considerable potential. Though hardly a bad movie, the filmmakers rely too heavily on slapstick comedy and sentimentality for it to be anything more than glossy escapism. The book had bite, but the movie is muzzled.

Phil Brown/Metro Canada

Miracle at St. Anna

REVIEW Using a real-life massacre of innocent civilians by German troops as his inspiration, Spike Lee's film follows a quartet of black GIs who are cut off from their unit behind enemy lines. They rely on a remote village to hide them, and the wounded and traumatized little boy one of them has adopted, while their commanding officer demands that they bring back a captured German to confirm an imminent attack. The film has a looseness and disjointed continuity that suggest a drastic editing down that is only partly mitigated by its lunge into the fantastical at the end. Despite his habitual contentiousness, Lee is still a marvelous craftsman, and when something works it really works, though not enough to make Miracle At St. Anna anything like an unqualified success.

Rick McGinnis/Metro Canada

Nick & Norah's Infinite Playlist

REVIEW
A shambling but charming story of true love accidentally discovered on a hectic New York night starring Michael Cera, the Warren Beatty of the under-25 indie kid set as Nick, and the pillow-lipped Kat Dennings as Nora, the pretty girl who gives Nick a reason to forget about his nasty tease of an ex. Set in the bars and lounges of New York's rock scene, the film is full of the sorts of cameos that are supposed to give it credibility with its target audience, and basically succeeds.

Election and comic relief

Rick's TV Picks

Election Night

Season Premiere: Oct. 5
Network: various

Every channel will likely be covering this year's polls, though none of them will probably admit that they probably won't have the final tally before they have to give way to late-night syndicated shows and infomercials. If you're not a political junkie or a policy wonk obsessed with the ritual, the only way to make it interesting — there's a drinking game or three in here somewhere — is to compare how each network tried to make the plodding process of exit polls and counting ballots seem like D-Day performed by the cast of Run Lola Run.

Stephen Harper

Rick Mercer's Election Special

Season Premiere: Oct. 14
Network: CBC

Rick Mercer is Canada's Jon Stewart, mostly due to a lack of competition, and like Stewart and Saturday Night Live, he has a civic duty to put on special election programming. Canada's political leaders have always been happy to play along with Mercer and his former colleagues at This Hour Has 22 Minutes, so Mercer's political satire always has a coziness that's both utterly Canadian and occasionally regrettable.

Testees

Season Premiere: Oct. 14
Network: Showcase

This new comedy from Kenny Hotz of Kenny Vs. Spenny fame arrives packed with gleeful gross-out humour appropriate to the dayglo pun in its title and the reliable presumption that two men together are infinitely more idiotic than a man alone. Two losers make rent money by selling themselves as drug-testing guinea pigs; the pregnant man joke is dispensed with in the pilot, so it's nowhere to go but up from here. The place to go if you want real comic relief from the night's political coverage.

Kenny Hotz

Glamour UK's Best Dressed 2008

Season Premiere: Oct. 13
Network: Star!

Shows like this are the TV equivalent of dusting a corn dog with Splenda — queasy-making and not even remotely good for you, but in the right frame of mind (sarcastic, verging on bilious) there's a sort of vicarious sport to be had in wondering at the get-ups famous people will step out in, and the barbed admiration celebrity news shows will display at their combination of genes, gym time and shamelessness.

Rick McGinnis/Metro Canada

Kate Moss is said to have made the list.

Execs talk new season

WORKING CLASS HERO: One sure sign that the current TV season has tanked is that network executives are already talking about the next one.

Yesterday, the New York Post ran a story anticipating a revival of the near-flatlined sitcom in response to the second coming of the Great Depression that's supposed to be one more defaulted mortgage away.

According to the Post, the ladies and gentlemen in the offices with the view that doesn't look over the repo yard are even taking credit for anticipating the economic downturn months ago, which suggests that SEC might want to take a look at their portfolios for signs of conspicuous shorting of stocks.

"We anticipated that the economic times were not going to be as strong as they once were," said Ben Silverman, the NBC programming wunderkind who spent most of August in Beijing instead of preparing for his network's new season, "and so, after the writers' strike, we consciously began development on a number of shows featuring working-class heroes."

"One thing that is definitely happening is, as the economic crisis has entered the zeitgeist, certain projects become more relevant and others less," said Jennifer Nicholson Salke, head of comedy and drama development at Fox Television.

Just precisely what that means, however, depends on who's doing the interpreting.

Rick McGinnis writes about music, movies, books and television, but not opera.

ABC Family picks up 10 Things and Ruby

PILOTS ABC Family has picked up two half-hour pilots — 10 Things I Hate About You, based on the Heath Ledger film, and Ruby and the Rockits, starring David Cassidy and Spy Kids veteran Alexa Vega. 10 Things revolves around two sisters — a strong-willed feminist and a social butterfly — facing the challenges of starting out in a new high school. The 1999 film, inspired by Shakespeare's The Taming of the Shrew, was directed by Gil Junger, who will shoot the pilot. Ruby follows a former teen idol whose quiet life is disrupted when his brother and former bandmate shows up with a newfound teenage daughter. Both pilots will go into production this fall in Los Angeles. ABC Family has also greenlighted an original romantic comedy movie with Joey Lawrence and Melissa Joan Hart. In it, they fake a marriage to get cash and presents. REUTERS

Writer's Guild blacklists Ozzy

The Writers Guild of America warned its members yesterday not to work on Ozzy Osbourne's new comedy-variety show at Fox. The union says the show's producer, FremantleMedia North America, offered a "sub-standard contract" asking that writers be treated as if they were working on "half-scripted" shows, which would greatly reduce their writing fees. The writing on the show, with the working title of The Osbournes: Loud and Dangerous, would traditionally be covered under the guild's basic agreement, used in the past for such shows as The Carol Burnett Show and Laugh-In, the WGA said. But Fremantle, according to the WGA, wanted to treat other portions of the show as "reality content," which would not be covered. Fremantle indicated it would be responsible for writing that part of the show. The WGA refused. "Now it is clear that Fremantle's intention is to bring their low-cost, nonunion business model into traditional genres — first game shows, then comedy-variety," the WGA said in a letter to members. "Soon, no WGA-covered writing will be safe from their aggressive undermining of our contract. We cannot allow this encroachment to continue." Fremantle's David Shall, general counsel and executive VP of business operations, accused the WGA of waging a campaign of "defamation and negative propaganda." The WGA, Shall said, was contacted in good faith by Fremantle with the hopes of hiring WGA writers for the "non-traditional" Osbourne show, which mixes variety with reality TV. Shall says the WGA broke off talks after "only a few phone conversations" and ordered its membership to not write for the show. The WGA denied it broke off talks, saying Fremantle sent an e-mail that ended discussions, and to retaliate, made the order to members not to write for the show — and those who do write could face a fine. REUTERS

4 Extraordinary Canadians: Lester B. Pearson, by Andrew Cohen Election shenanigans got you down? Renew your view of Canada's leaders with Metro Canada columnist Andrew Cohen's book on Lester B. Pearson. Here was a politician who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1957 for his diplomatic work as external affairs minister, for no less — in the words of the selection committee — than having "saved the world."

5 High School Musical Director and High School Musical alum Kenny Ortega wants to make a fourth installment in the Disney franchise, femalefirst.co.uk reports, this time focusing on newcomer Jemma McKenzie-Brown. 6 Corner Gas: Season 5 Corner Gas: Season 5, starring Brent Butt, Gabrielle Miller and Eric Peterson, is now available on DVD, on three discs. It's been the top-selling DVD on Amazon.ca.

7 Coldplay deluxe package Coldplay's Viva La Vida — Prospekt's March edition will be released in North America on Nov. 25. The two-disc deluxe package pairs the band's fourth full-length album with Prospekt's March, a new EP.

First political sound bites recorded 100 years ago

SoundCheck

Alan Cross

alan@ongoinghistory.com

Watching all the political debates this past week reminded me of a CD I recently acquired on a whim. It's a 22-track release of a presidential debate from — wait for it — 1908.

When Thomas Edison invented the phonograph, the last thing he was interested in was recording music. He envisioned the phonograph as a way to capture the words of great men and their great speeches for all time. In 1908, U.S. Republicans nominated William Howard Taft while the Democrats countered with William Jennings Bryan for the third consecutive time.

When they met in a series of debates to discuss issues such as imperialism (Should America stay in the Philippines?), intervention into foreign lands (Are Christian missions any of our business?) and the recent collapse of the American financial system (The Panic of 1907), their addresses were recorded on Edison Talking Machines and distributed on Edison cylinders. In other words, 100 years ago, the media gave us our first political sound bites.

Edison cylinders were fragile things, but given their historical value, examples of the Taft/Jennings debates were preserved. And forgotten. Enter a company from Champaign, Ill., called Archeophone Records. Since 1998, they've been lovingly preserving and re-issuing ancient sound recordings on CD.

The Taft/Jennings recordings are fascinating, but Archeophone also has releases that collect songs from the time before microphones, mixing boards and proper studios.

Lost Sounds: Blacks and the Birth of the Recording Industry, 1891-1922 is a window on some of the earliest blues and jazz recordings ever made. Before Radio: Comedy, Drama and Sound Sketches, 1897-1923 offers an idea of the kind of entertainment people would listen to on their Edison machines before anyone even knew what a "radio" was. My favourite is Actionable Offenses: Indecent Phonograph Recordings from the 1890s. If you think today's comedians are out of control, then you need to listen to what was being committed to cylinder more than a century ago.

Archeophone is highly recommended for people who want to know how the recording industry began. Go to archeophone.com.

Looking back in anger

Toronto incident overshadows release of Oasis' new album

BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI
for Metro Canada

While the recent attack on Oasis guitarist Noel Gallagher was bad — he broke three ribs after a 47-year-old man assaulted him at Toronto's Virgin Festival last month — bassist Andy Bell said things could have been worse.

"I saw Noel lying on the ground," he says on the phone from his London home. "I thought he had been stabbed."

At first Bell was in shock. He saw the crazed fan leap at singer Liam Gallagher after knocking Noel down, but three body guards quickly tackled the suspect. Although the band finished its set, it had to cancel a number of tour dates — including ones in London, Ont., and Montreal — after the band found out the older Gallagher brother had broken bones.

Needless to say, Bell and the rest of the band aren't too pleased that they're sitting at home while their new record, Dig

Out Your Soul, is hitting stores this week.

"We're unbelievably angry about this," he says. "It's crazy, right now we should be doing dates, but we're not. This has thrown a huge bomb in the middle of our schedule. Apart from the fact it's something you don't do. You don't attack a man from behind."

Bell's not sure what will happen to the attacker, and he hasn't found out why Gallagher was hit, but the incident has made them rethink their large festival gigs.

Although the band did finally resume touring this week in Liverpool, this setback has made it more difficult to promote its album. It's too bad too as Dig Out Your Soul could be the band's best effort since its mid-90s heyday. The songs aren't as rocking as What's the Story Morning Glory, and they don't deviate much from their familiar Beatles-esque pop, but for the first time in a while the band sounds like it's trying again.

It helps that every band member contributed at least a track to the record. Bell's responsible for the upbeat rocker Nature of Reality, and while it's one of the less Oasis-like tracks on the album, making it a refreshing addition to the band's sound, it's not the song the bassist would have

"I saw Noel lying on the ground ... I thought he had been stabbed."

Bassist Andy Bell

picked for the record.

"If we were going to for one track, I would have chosen a different one," he says, pointing out that he actually wrote a number of tunes, despite only one being picked. "Noel sets the tone of the album, then he goes back through the 60 or so songs we've got in a collective pile and he pulls out things that suit his head space. So Nature made more sense with everything together."

While the soft spoken Bell has several more good tunes that might never see the light day, he's not upset — he just wants to get back on the road. "We're trying to get in the zone again. The worst thing was preparing to be so active and then not doing anything. We all feel a bit out of sorts, but in terms of playing, the music sounds brilliant."

Oasis' new album, Dig Out Your Soul, is now in stores.

Recipe of the day

Chicken breasts with peaches and ginger

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 bunch scallions, trimmed
1 lb (500 g) boneless skinless chicken breasts halves, trimmed
¼ tsp (1 mL) salt
Freshly ground black pepper
2 tsp (10 mL) canola oil
3 tbsp (45 mL) apple cider vinegar
2 tbsp (25 mL) sugar
½ cup (125 mL) no-sugar-added peach juice or apple juice
2 tbsp (25 mL) grated fresh ginger
1 ¼ cup (300 mL) reduced-sodium chicken broth
1 large peach, peeled and sliced (1/2-in/1-cm wedges)
2 tsp (10 mL) cornstarch
2 tsp (10 mL) water

METHOD:

1. Chop scallions, reserving all white portions and ¼ cup (50 mL) greens separately.
2. If chicken pieces are large, cut in half lengthwise so that you have at least 4 pieces. Place chicken between 2 pieces of plastic wrap and pound into ½-in (1-cm) thickness with rolling pin or mallet. Season

- with salt and pepper.
3. Heat oil in large skillet over medium-high heat. Add chicken and brown, 3 to 3 ½ minutes per side. Transfer to plate.
4. Add vinegar and sugar to skillet. Stir to dissolve sugar. Cook, swirling skillet, until syrup turns dark amber. Add scallion whites, peach juice and ginger. Bring to boil, stirring to scrape up caramelized bits. Cook for 1 minute. Add broth and peaches. Return to boil. Cook, turning peaches, until tender. Mix cornstarch and water. Add to sauce. Cook, stirring, until slightly thickened. Reduce heat to low. Return chicken and accumulated juices to skillet. Simmer gently until chicken is heated through, about 1 minute. Garnish with reserved scallion greens.

Kellie opens up about depression

PEOPLE Last year, Kellie Pickler battled depression and suffered reactions to anti-depressant pills after struggling with family problems and a breakup from her boyfriend, hockey player Jordin Tootoo, People.com reports.

"In my personal life, I was just crumbling," the singer says.

Anti-depressants made her "crazy," she says, and the side effects forced her to quit the pills.

At the same time, she watched her father — a convicted felon who had been released from prison soon after her stint on American Idol — return to jail, while her mother, who abandoned her at the age of two, unexpectedly re-emerged.

Her friendships with singers Taylor Swift and Carrie Underwood, along with a new love, songwriter Kyle Jacobs, and writing songs helped her find balance again.

Stalking suspect faces trial

DENIALS A woman accused of stalking actor John Cusack will stand trial after a plea deal fell through, imdb.com reports.

Diane Leatherman, 33, was arrested outside Cusack's California home in March and charged with one felony count of stalking.

Leatherman was set to accept a deal with a Los Angeles court, which would have seen her avoid prison, but it collapsed after she accused her attorney, Brent Merritt, of using scare tactics to get her to agree to the deal.

Merritt denied the allegation.

Leatherman will now stand trial at a future date.

Leatherman faces three years in prison if convicted.

"This makes no sense at all..."

Courteney Cox has revealed to Marie Claire magazine that she's no fan of Botox, because it would destroy her ability to act. Phew! Big sigh of relief from yours truly. Rejoice with me that we're not going to be robbed of the thespian talents of Courteney Cox in the foreseeable future.

You have to love it when a celebrity makes a breathless admission that attempts to position her as a person not entirely morally compromised by living in the cesspool of venality that is Hollywood. Saying, "I won't use Botox" is right up there with, "If I have one fault, it might be that I care about people too much," or, "The friends I grew up with keep me grounded." You can be sure that when you read these statements, the speaker is probably laughing and thinking, "I'm such a good actor!"

However, I won't dispute that Cox is telling the truth when she says she doesn't use Botox. Botox is as passé as detox these days. The elite have moved on to something else. Nicole Kidman has fewer lines on her face than her newborn daughter, and my sources tell me that a top-secret injected serum made up of dolphin tears, called Flip-pox, is responsible.

Butler in assault probe

GETTY IMAGES PHOTOS

LEGAL Gerard Butler is at the centre of a Los Angeles police criminal investigation after allegedly assaulting a photographer, imdb.com reports.

Butler was driven off in a waiting limousine after leaving an L.A. bar at 2 a.m. on Tuesday when a waiting photographer began to follow the actor's vehicle in his own car.

According to

TMZ.com, Butler ordered his limousine to stop before climbing out and asking the photographer why he was being followed.

When the man responded, "Hey, that's my job," Butler allegedly reached in the car, grabbed the photographer's throat and punched him with a closed fist.

According to reports, the paparazzo had to be treated in hospital for his injuries, which were stitched up before he went to file a police report for the incident.

Officials at the Los Angeles Police Department have confirmed they are looking into the case and plan on interviewing the actor.
